Mr. John A. McCone
Director of Central Intelligence
Washington, D. C.

Dear Mr. McCone :

Your letter of 3 March 1964 and my memorandum of 26 February 1964, to which it responds, would appear to establish a firm concept for DOD participation in The United States Intelligence Board. My staff, in coordination with the intelligence staffs of the Military Departments, is now working on the detailed plans and procedures which are required by the agreed changes in the USIB membership.

With respect to NSCID #1, I agree with your proposed changes but I believe one other is necessary. To clearly identify the intelligence components of the Department of Defense within the context of the intelligence community, the second footnote of page one should be amended to read: "The intelligence community includes the Central Intelligence Agency, the intelligence components of the Departments of State, Defense (Defense Intelligence Agency, Army, Navy, and Air Force), National Security Agency, the Federal Bureau of Investigation and the Atomic Energy Commission. Other components"

I do not anticipate any real problems in resolving the remaining questions leading to full implementation of this concept.

Sincerely,

Joseph F. Carroll
